ANDERSON CHALLENGES ZONING LAWS

In a petition to the Land Court, served last week on Town Clerk Esther Russell, Minot Anderson of Lowell St. has challenged the Zoning By-Law of Wilmington, as it applies to property he owns on Lowell Street, near Route 93.

Anderson, who is also the Building Inspector of Wilmington, and hence the officer who enforces the Zoning By-Law, has sought to have his land 3.4 acres, rezoned from Residential to commercial use, from its present zoning of Single Residence 'A', and the Town Meeting has refused to rezone.

In the petition Anderson relates that both the Planning Board and the Board of Selectmen have approved of the proposed rezoning, that he cannot use his land as it is presently soned, and he claims that the present Zoning is invalid under the provisions of General Laws Chapter 40, Sections 25-30B, as amended.

The classifying of this tract of land as residential works a substantial hardship on the petitioners, because the effect of this classification is to deprive the petitioners of any beneficial use whatever of the property; and that relief could and should be granted without substantial detriment to the public good, the petition states.

The Town has been commanded, by the Land Court, to make return on the subpena on the 24th of September.

BETTERMENTS NOT HARDSHIPS IN APPEAL HEARINGS

Betterments, as such, are not hardships, the Wilmington Board of Appeals ruled, in a decision handed down Tuesday night.

The decision was a denial to divide a lot of land at the corner of Sprucewood Road and Shady Lane Drive, requested by a Mrs. Dini, and represented at the hearings by Atty David Elfman.

Mr. Elfman told the Appeal Board on July 10th that Mrs Dini owned a lot of land that had the equivilant of two ordinary frontages, 230 feet, and 98 foot depth, and that as such she was paying the equivilant of two betterments for her lot.

The appeal was opposed by the Planning Board, who stated that to divide the land into two lots would be to create two illegal lots.

In the decision handed down Tuesday night the Appeal Board stated:

It is the opinion of the Board that the burden of expense to be borne by a property owner, resulting from a decision of the Town to install utilities in the street or improve the street in front of the property, does not constitute a hardship in the sense of law as prescribed as a necessary prerequisite to the granting of a variance.

SCHOOL ENROLLMENT EXPECTED TO REACH 3775

School pupils in the Wilmington Public Schools are expected to reach 3775, an increase of 300 over last year, according to a news release by the School Department. The teaching staff, including principals and supervisors, will number 163. Schools with hot lunch facilities will serve meals on the first day at the usual rate of 25¢ per meal.

The schools will open on Sept 5th, with full day sessions in all grades. Parents of children using buses are urged to check the bus-routes carefully not only for the streets the buses will travel, but also the grades assigned to a particular bus. The schedules will appear in the August 30th issue of the Town Crier.

The new North Intermediate School, the first of three similar schools to be opened in Wilmington in the next ten years will start with an enrollment of 450.

On the 4th of September, the day before school opens, a general teachers' meeting is to be held in the High School Auditorium at 9 am, and after the general meeting there will be district and building meetings, with the Principals. The Supervising Principals, Supervisors and Building Principals are to meet in Room 102 of the High School to review last minute details.

AVCO TO HAVE HUGE PICNIC THIS AFTERNOON

A huge picnic and Bond Rally will be held this afternoon on the Avco Recreational Grounds on Lowell Street, with 3600 employees of the Wilmington and Waltham plants taking part

It will be a combination carnival, cookout and outdoor sport event, with the main feature being the gag-filled baseball game between the Administrative and the Technical Managers. The picnic is to start at 4:45 pm and the game at 6:30.

A Dixieland band, dancing and singing acts will be an added feature of this years' picnic.

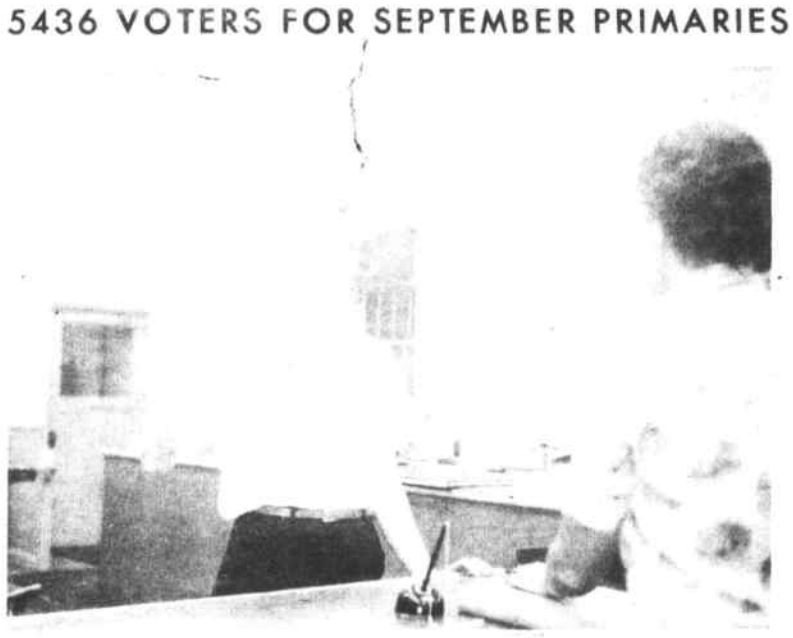

THE TENTH ANNIVERSARY OF WIGISDACA

The tenth anniversary of the Wilmington Girl Scout Day Camp was observed, at Camp Forty acres, last Thursday, with over 100 girls from Wilmington, Burlington and Billerica taking part. Each unit dressed in a costume of its own choice for the Ceremonies.

5436 VOTERS FOR SEPTEMBER PRIMARIES

A total of 5436 voters will be eligible to cast ballots in the September primaries, in Wilmington, with 68 new voters regsstered last Friday. The last new regist ration was that of Philip Tupper, above, shown being sworn by Asst Town Clerk Sylvia Bowman, just before 10 pm.

HUNDREDS ATTEND McKELVEY RALLY

Harold W McKelvey, Candidate for the Democratic nomination for State Senator had over 300 guests, at his home on Border Avenue, Sunday afternoon and evening.

Among the notables who were present were Frank Bellotti, candidate for Lt Governor, County Commissioner Thomas B. Brennan, Rep. Thomas F. Donohue of Woburn and Rep. Stanley Bocko of Billerica.

The grounds were laid out to resemble a fair ground, with plenty of seating facilities. There were lunch 'Islands' and the spectators who came to hear the issues were treated to plenty of good food and refreshments.

CONDEMN CHOICE OF SCHOOL CUSTODIAN

The choice, by the Town Manager, of the part-time custodian of the Town Hall to be Custodian of the new North School was sharply condemned, last Thursday by School Committee members Arthur V. Lynch and Glen Connolly.

Under the Town Charter the Town Manager names the Custodians of Schools. The man he has named is husband of his personal secretary.

'I have nothing against the individual named, as an individual,' said Mr. Lynch, 'but I believe his appointment to the second-best position in the school custodial staff has been extremely prejudicial and constitutes a direct slap against men who have worked so long and faithfully in our schools.'

VARIANCE ON MAIN STREET

The Board of Appeals, in a decision handed down Tuesday night denied an appeal by Generoso Capodulopo of 602 Gray St. Billerica, for a variance to allow a real estate office in a private dwelling at 168 Main Street. The case was heard on June 5th, and was the second such hearing for the same site by the same man, the previous hearing being for a real estate office in the garage on the lot.

NATIONAL EDITORIAL ASSOCIATION 1962 AFFILIATE MEMBER

WINNER OF 6 STATE & REGIONAL AWARDS

THE WILY LOWELL STREET PARKERS

Avco is a mighty organization which has its Crown Jewel right here in Wilmington, address 201 Lowell Street. It is a company that can do almost anything. But, try as it may, it cannot outwit a little puny organization known as the Lowell Street Parkers Association.

Membership in the association is difficult; for in order to comply with the Rules Committee a parker must outwit the Avco and Wilmington Gendarmes every day for a month. After a month of successful parking the neophyte is admitted into the order, and then, at suitable intervals if he has kept in good standing by parking on Lowell Street every day, he is given awards which testify to his abilities and merit.

The Award, for instance, for three months of successful uninterrupted parking, is a Nickle Plated Model Crumpled Fender, and after six months the recognition is given at an awards banquet, in the form of a Gold Plated Fender.

It's quite an organization. No President. No Dues. Just a Rules Committee, and assorted MG and 1956 Chevvie owners with wily dispositions.

THE STREET BETTERMENT SCANDAL

Imagine, if the reader will, the case of a fond father discovering that his teen-age son has been driving at better than 100 miles an hour in the family car. Imagine further, that the son's explanation is: But Nobody has been killed!

A preposterous excuse, of course, but no more so than the reasoning of our Board of Selectmen in the current scandal - the Betterment One.

Six years ago a careful program was worked out on how to avoid the manifold pitfalls of a Street Betterment Program. The man who did it was our Principal Assessor, and it was at the taxpayer's expense. It was given to our Board of Selectmen, and it was so good that the State asked Mr. Calabrese, the assessor in question, to lecture on the subject two years in succession to the Massachusetts Association of Assessors.

Now, it develops, somebody has been running our Street Betterment Program with his left foot, and the pitfalls of which Mr Calabrese so expressly warned have been neglected. A letter has been written AFTER the scandal broke, which says in effect: In one particular instance there is not so much harm. The letter says nothing about the other instances.

Even if it should develop that in the other instances there is no particular harm, which is a possibility, that is no excuse for the scandal.

And even if the Town Counsel or one of his associates should rule that there is no particular harm in one of the other instances of neglect, and that nobody has been killed, the taxpayer will still be left on Uneasy Street until October 22nd., which is the last day that any of the 136 land-owners can file an appeal for an abatement.

Two lawyers, the old adage says, make a lawsuit, and any of the 136 landowners may well consult an attorney who might find one of the "fatal" flaws against which Mr Calabrese so elequently warned, and which our Town Hall, in its usual business attitude, neglected to observe.

ANOTHER CHANCE FOR MR BROOKS TO BE OF SERVICE

There are a few interesting sidelights to the current Betterment Scandal, and one of them concerns the story of how our Wide Awake Town Manager got a story saying that there were no Betterment Scandals in Wilmington on the front page of the Tewksbury Throwaway.

The Tewksbury Throwaway, as almost all Wilmington residents know, arrives in their wastebaskets through the medium of third-class postage paid to the United States Postoffice Department. Third Class postage, used by all Throwaways, amounts, in this case, to something over $10,000 a year.

Second Class postage, such as is paid by the paid-circulation newspapers, is much much less costly, and every Throwaway Publisher envies the real newspapers for being able to really sell their papers.

A few years ago the Tewksbury Throwaway publisher announced that he had 8000 or so paid subscribers, after a massive campaign, and was granted Second Class priviliges by the Post Office. He even had a picture of himself and his office girl, on the front page of his publication, opening a huge pile of letters, said to contain money for subscriptions.

Well placed rumor, at that time, said that there were three telephone books under that pile of letters, and in any event the farce stopped after a year or two, when the publisher was unable to prove that the people really wanted to buy his publication.

It again reverted to the Throwaway Status, and can again be found in the wastebaskets of many homes in Wilmington. It admits that no one pays to read the thing.

It was in this Throwaway, a couple of months ago, that our Wide Awake Town Manager placed an advertisement, extolling the wonderful virtues of Wilmington, as a place for industry. The ad if paid for, must have cost over $100.

And, of course, after such an advertisement it was easy to get the "No Scandal" story on the front page of that Throwaway.

But this gives Mr Brooks, our Chairman of Selectmen another chance to tell the truth to the people of Wilmington.

Who paid for that advertisement, and why? Did Mr Lancaster dig down into his pocket and pay up?

Or was it the Taxpayers of Wilmington?

TOWN NOTES

Thunderstorm

The thunderstorm of last Friday dropped 1.30 inches of rain onto a parched Wilmington and all at one dump, which probably meant that a lot of the water did not get absorbed into the soil.

It was followed by .18 inches of rain, Sunday.

Wilmington, so far, is two inches short of the rainfall in August a year ago, with a total to date of 2.30 inches.

Brush

We note that the brush beside the roads, on the approaches to some of our schools, was cut, Monday and Tuesday, much improving conditions as far as safety to youngsters is concerned.

The Chief of the Boys in Blue suggested it to the Highway Superintendent, last Friday and Jimmy got right after it.

Tracks

Also to be noted is that the B&M has improved the surface across the railroad tracks on Main Street, where some ugly spikes were sticking up for months. It's a smooth ride now and we'll undoubtedly hear some crowing about it.

Bass

As far as the Town Crier knows, only one good sized bass has been caught out of Silver Lake so far this year, and that by a Burnap Street resident.

We mention it because Supt. of Schools Harold Shea went up to New Hampshire on his vacation, and returned a week or so with a couple of whoppers.

Price of Land

The Town Crier, a couple of weeks ago had a story about Doug Palmer selling his home on West Street to a firm which is planning to erect an office building there.

Doug now has a new home on Forest Street, one of the modern Ranch Type, and is comfortable as you please.

The rumor, unconfirmed as yet, is that Doug received a sum of $15,000 an acres, for his West Street land, which makes it, if true, an all-time high price of land for Wilmington.

Co-Incidence

In the past week the Wilmington Water Department has been installing a new main on Dorchester Avenue and Hopkins St. right by the Billerica Line.

It is a sort of lonely section, not much visited by the average person, as is the same area across the line in Billerica.

And the Billerica Water Department is installing mains there, to meet the Wilmington mains - purely by co-incidence

Dear Larz:

I am sorry that I didn't send you my new address sooner but I did not know it until just now.

I look forward to getting the Town Crier every week. My address is to be changed again soon, within a month or so. As soon as I get it I will send it on to you.

Dear Larz:

I am one of the ladies who frequently uses the Town Beach at Silver Lake, and I must comment.

The beach is wonderful, and the people of Wilmington should be proud of it.

But the toilet facilities are another subject.

I had to take my youngster to the toilet there last week, and it was filthy. My girlfriend, who also visited the place, said it was 'horrible'.

I can understand the difficulties of controlling a bunch of children, and the reason for doling out toilet paper to the children, but I cannot understand why the place should still be kept in a filthy condition.

Yours very truly

Dear Mr. Neilson:

In Mr Sanders' letter which you published last week, and which was in answer to mine about the Supreme Court prayer ban decision, he includes some statements I would like to discuss.

First, Mr Sanders states that if I had read more I would know that '27 leading churchmen' agreed with the Court. I read that, and I read the list of names of the men. I also read that the National Association of Evangelicals spoke out against the decision, as did the majority of clergymen in the country, the most prominent among them, including Methodist Bishop Corson.

Second, Mr Sanders quotes Niebuhr where he points out that the real issue is constitutional, 'whether the court has not in fact assumed the legislative function, in the guise of interpreting the constitution.' This is not a new wrinkle for the Warren court. The Court reveresed itself, as Justice Potter pointed out in his dissenting opinion, reversing a decision they had made only ten years ago. The Court acted counter to the principle of states' rights, as well as establishing a principle which if carried to its logical conclusion, could completely secularize our American society. By what great magic did this court obtain so much more wisdom than all the lower courts which tried the case? But then what can one expect when the Court is led by a Chief Justice who had absolutely no judicial experience before receiving the appointment as a political reward.

Finally, Mr Sanders suggested that I must have looked into a crystal ball in order to find the information that makes me believe that the present Chief Justice is worthy of impeachment because of his pro-communist leaning. I refer Mr Sanders not only to NINE MEN AGAINST AMERICA by Rosalie Gordon but also to 'WE BELIEVE', a series of editorials published by the Indianapolis Star in 1957; A special report of the American Bar Association in 1957 entitled 'Communist Strategy, Tactics, and Objectives', discussing some of the Warren led decisions; and the speeches by Senator James Eastland on the floor of the Senate in 1955 a d again early in 1962, to mention just a few sources.

Out of 65 decisions in which Earl Warren h s participated, and which involved communism or communists, he voted for the communist position 62 times. I will write another letter next week and briefly discuss some of these decisions.

Sincerely,
William E. Dunham

PUPIL INSURANCE CONTRACT AWARDED TO PLAZA INSURANCE

The Plaza Insurance Agency, Main Street, Wilmington, has been awarded the 1962-63 Wilmington Public Schools Student Accident and Football Insurance, by the Wilmington School Committee. The award was made in a special meeting last Thursday.

Plaza, and the Bedell Brothers Insurancy Agency were two lowest bidders, out of 7 bids. The committee voted 3 to 1 to award the contract to Pla za, with Arthur V Lynch casting 'no vote'.

Lynch summarized the problem as he and other members saw it by saying that the Bedell contract was the best of the two, except that Bedell was unable to offer protection on 'Football Tryouts' because the firm for which Bedell was underwriting offered insurance on regular players only.

Bedell's price was $1.50 for elementary pupils and $2.00 for High School pupils in all sports except foorball, for a coverage of $5000 maximum.

Plaza offered a price of $1.75 for all grades, with a coverage of $3500.

Bedell offered prices between $10 and $14 for a $5000 coverage of regular football players with no coverage for 'tryouts', while Plaza offered prices of $12.50 to $18.50 for protection of $250 to $5000 for football players, which included those in 'tryouts'.

SCHOOL 'TAXI' CONTRACT AWARDED TO JOE'S TAXI

Eleven Wilmington youngsters, mentally or physically handicapped, will again be brought to and taken home from the Wilmington Public Schools in 'Joe's Taxi', this year.

The award was made by the School Committee last Thursday at a price of $11,50 per day, the same price as last year.

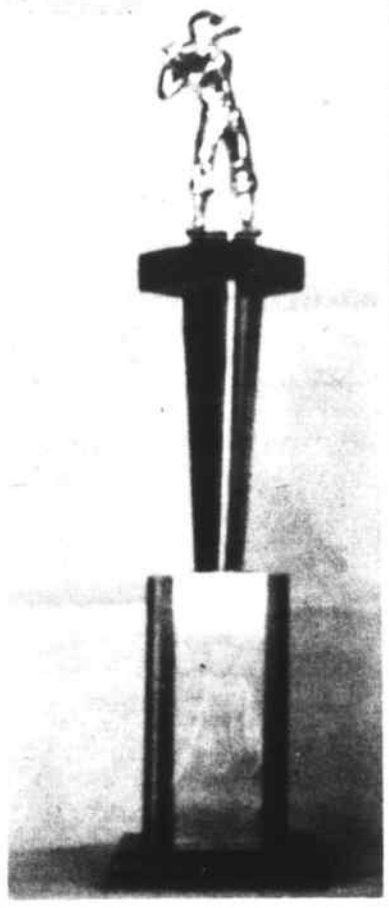

The Superintendent of Schools had asked five Wilmington Taxi companies for bids, he reported. Only Joe's Taxi was able to bid by reason of other companies being unable to accomodate themselves to the required schedules.

ORIENTATION DAY PROGRAM PLANNED FOR NEW TEACHERS

New teachers in the Wilmington Public Schools will attend an 'Orientation Day' program in the Glen Road School on August 29, from 9 am to 3 pm.

The program will include a Welcome, and a Discussion of School Committee Policies by Supt of Schools Harold S. The afternoon program will consist of discussions led by the Supervising Principals and Supervisors, followed by a Question and Answer period.

GLEN CONNOLLY DISCUSSES SCHOOL PROBLEMS

The Special School Committee meeting of last Thursday ended fairly early, and the School Committee, led by Glen Connolly, had a discussion about problems involving the philosophy and problems of teaching and school finances.

Mr. Connolly, Arthur Lynch, and School Superintendent Harold Shea were the main speakers, with an occasional word from Chairman George Robertie. The discussion ranged sometimes off the three subjects brought up by Connolly, and lasted about an hour.

First Area

Connolly divided the discussion into three areas. The first had to do with the workload of the Superintendent of Schools.

He began it by observing that he had great respect for the detailed work on the part of Mr. Shea with respect to the business details of the Wilmington Schools, and wondered if it might be worth while to employ a 'business manager' so as to take part of the load off Shea's shoulders, and allow more time to that gentleman in the business of superintending education.

Shea, relative to the discussion, told Connolly that in his first several months in the Wilmington school system he revised the system so as to have three Supervising Principles, on a 12 month basis, and that these people picked up 'the slack'. Mr. Barrett, for instance, one of the supervisors, had during this past summer prepared the State Report, and if Barrett had not, he, Shea, would have had no time for teacher recruitment.

'When the Wilmington School System reaches probably 4500 children, then we might talk about a business manager,' Shea said.

Giving the Supervising Principals a 12 month year relieved the school principals and heads of departments of a part of their workload, Shea told Connolly, and this he believed to be a major step, relative, among other things, to costs of schools.

He estimated that having a Business Manager would cost the town $8,000 a year, plus another $3,000 for a secretary and referred to this as 'centralization'.

The three Supervising Principals, together, cost the town $8000 a year over their regular salaries on a 9 month year Shea said.

'Basically' Shea said, 'I am an advocate of decentralization, rather than the opposite'.

Work Loads

Work Loads, for teachers, was the second part of Connolly's discussion, in which he was joined by both Lynch and Robertie - Mr Robertie being a teacher in the Winchester Public Schools.

Connolly initiated the discussion by saying a teacher with a 27 hour work load (in a week) was overworked. He cited the time necessary for preparation of classes, and correction of papers, plus extra studies, and estimated that a teacher with a 27 hour teaching schedule was really working 56 to 60 hours a week.

'5 hours of teaching, in a day, for a high school teacher is really too much - good teachers cannot keep it up - it seems that we should set a maximum of 20 hours (a week)' Connolly stated.

Shea pointed out that to reduce the teaching hours 1 period, in a high school with 60 teachers, such as Wilmington High School, meant an extra 15 teachers on the pay-roll. 'If you think Wilmington is ready for that big step --'

Robertie: Teachers have more to do than lecturing, in High School.

Connolly: In college 12 hours a week is considered a good work load.

Shea: In colleges the best teachers are not even exposed to the freshmen. They are reserved for the upper classmen. I have no quarrel with the philosophy that says to the good instructors 'Here, take some of these slow learners, too'.

He referred to the problem of having good teachers for good classes, and how this conflicts with having good teachers with average classes, and good teachers for less than average grade pupils.

Connolly: I have read in admiration of Mr. Saba and his wonderful honors, and have thought with horror of the possibility of his leaving a classroom for some other job, just because more money was offered.

Shea pointed out that having Department Heads relieved many teachers and principals of a part of their burdens, and cited the case of Miss Boutelier (teacher of Remedial Reading). Miss Boutelier, he said, he had placed in charge of all reading teaching, in all 12 grades. She reported directly to the superintendent, and this was of aid to the other teachers.

'Department Heads have a mastery in their field' he said. 'You can never expect a High School Principal to be knowledgeable in all 12 principal areas of study. Having Department Heads relieves him of this burden, and allows him to administer the High School.

The 'Specialist Role', Mr Shea said, was the third part of his reorganization of the Wilmington Schools.

Intermediate Schools

Connolly's third discussion was the role of the Intermediate Schools. He felt that a 3 year Intermediate School was an element of strength, and a two year one (say 7th and 8th grades) was an 'indefensible situation.'

Shea pointed out that the presently planned schedule was as a result of discussions in 1958 by former Superintendent John Collins with the School Committee, and others, and that it was agreed upon on a basis of economics.

A 6-3-3 program, he said, with a ninth grade in an Intermediate School, just about doubles the Physical Education activities of a High School program, and further it adds to disciplinary problems because it is mainly with ninth graders that these problems arise. He added that the last two hours of Friday are the worst, for the teacher is then tired out after a week of teaching, and the children restless, and wishing the school week were over.

In colleges, Shea pointed out they feel it is better to phase a youngster off on a four year cycle in high school rather than a three year program.

'If there is to be a three year cycle, than it is better 6-7-8 than 7-8-9'

Connolly: That is what I would like to see.

Lynch: The subject intrigues me - it would make sense to study a 5-3-4 program.

Connolly: The thing that disturbs me in a 7-8 philosophy is that every year a new seventh grade comes in and the eighth leaves - it provides no continuity.

Shea: That's why, for instance, at the end of each school year we take the 6th graders over to the High School and into their new rooms - to bring them into a new scene while providing continuity with their then school year.

PRACTICE STARTS MONDAY

With members of the 1961 Championship Football team and other candidates reporting for practice at 10 am Monday, the possibilities are good that Wilmington High School will have a Freshman Football Team, this year.

About 40 to 45 Freshmen (now called Ninth Graders) are scheduled to report this year, 'the Freshmen into a special squad, and to have a regular the largest group of freshmen ever scheduled for Wilmington High School.

The Athletic Department, if all goes well, plans to put playing schedule for them with freshmen from other secondary schools.

Captain of the team, this year, is to be fleet-footed Jackie Bowen, who played Right Half Back with the team last year.

CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY COMMISSIONER

Attorney Alan I Alford of Sudbury is a candidate for the office of Middlesex County Commissioner. A graduate of Boston University School of Public Relations and Communications, and of Suffolk University Law School, he is a past treasurer and Vice Chairman of the Sudbury Town Republican Committee.

He served as Middlesex County organizer for the Massachusetts Council of Young Republicans, and was a delegate to the National Young Republican convention in Minneapolis.

Mr Alford feels that the main issue in this campaign is the spread of corruption which takes tax money out of the pockets of every citisen in the county.

THE GOLF COURSE IS COMING ALONG NICELY

On the green of Number Three Hole, at the Garden of Eden Golf Course off Chestnut Street, looking towards the Tee.

Sometime in October or November a man carrying a golf club in his hand is going to tee up at Number One, at the Garden of Eden Golf Club, off Chestnut Street, and the ancient amusement of the Scots will be a part of Wilmington's life.

Over a year in the building, the nine hole course is nearly ready. Progress is slow, admittedly - it is planned that way, for the people who are doing the planning and work are making sure that they are right, before they spend money

The nine holes are constructed, and the greens and tees for six of them are completed. There remains three more sets of greens and tees, and the seeding of the fairways, plus a little bit of work here and there about the course.

No. 3, shown in the picture, will be a par 3 course. There will be two par 3's, two par 5's and 5 Par 4 holes in the nine hole course.

And when the nine holes are completed, and open for play, construction will start on the second nine holes, making it an 18 hole course.

The club's grounds are situated among the rolling granite and schist hills of South Wilmington, in the colonial 'Garden of Eden'. The old mill brook, from Clapp's Mill has been dredged out, and there are two ponds today where once there was marsh. In addition there is a third pond, somewhat smaller, near No 3 Tee, where a spring was discovered during the course of the construction.

A natural garden, it abounds in plants and trees not seen elsewhere in Middlesex County today - such as Black and Yellow Birch, growing wild - the only such trees for miles.
